Education may not be a creation of the tools as children may not lack self. That means righteous growth of self only permits learning.

Correct self-development is the mission of education. And the child must find that purpose. In this regard, America's permissive education and environment are far superior regarding children's self-experience and the pursuit of their goals.

The religious world is only from righteous education. All these children may take full responsibility for the world in the future.

To give a self to all children is a duty of the nation. We are trying not to force them of their future.

If all people are not forced into their lives but seeking all their purposes, what could be the difference between all realities?

Not to ask for competition, but are new social systems based on the future?

We have a choice and could design the regions. Politics has his decision.

Giving all children a righteous future is our duty. And we may serve equal and opportunity to all children.

The health of the nation has the full acceptance of all people. This is a righteous society, and the nations/

Love and conscience must be the base of education, and they give self and growth to children.

Who could realize them all? I give you the truth. It must be king.
