

Educational system

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

The purpose of education is always to develop a correct and healthy self. Giving children the true selves they need and developing their ability to participate in society requires social and political consensus.

Making education compulsory for all children up to university education and making it free of charge will provide a proper environment for self-development as well as a social construction in response to the dramatic expansion of self-requirements in the new era.

Healthy self-development always gives the health of the nation.

All new reality that we have to require high skill and ability. That is all from the educational environment, and all children may not ask for any failure in the future.

All these means children must not be a toll, but needed with proper growth and learnings.

All new technology and system may be accepted by education. Politics and Officials must work in new environments.

To find a purpose in the world, all children must put themselves by tolerance as proper growth gives all children with self to participate in the world.

We may find truth in the world even if they find a dream, and we could give them a dream.

Making education up to university free and compulsory means that all children have the opportunity to participate in the world's cutting-edge developments, and these improvements in public morale will lead to the creation of an excellent nation.

Predicting the future along with the development of diverse universities, the creation of a proper society and nation will inevitably require the sound development of children.