

Food production and security in Central Asia, investment in social infrastructure

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

To cover all demand for lifeline in the whole of Asia, we insist on building a vast agricultural environment in Central Asia. These are under the highest agricultural technology to ask for our security.

As we are asking for national security, new development of infrastructure must be governed under society 5.0 in any reality of the region. All these are the recreation of society and the creation of new life.

We are trying to ask for it to change. That gives us an answer that we need a future.

National security forces us to make our independence from any realities. We need its tail of all reality that gives us to recreate self in all measures.

All new investments in social infrastructure must be under new systems and communication and transportation systems.

If we try to belong to others, we may not ask for the future. We are only working for the others.

That gives us an idea that we may plan and act in the future.

Society and life are all tails of any realities. If we are trying to be wise, we may know that.

Peoples are the nation. That gives correct proof and answers. How may we find a country?
By the people.

This idea forces all politics to reconstruct itself. We may ask for all hopes in the future.

Determining the mind gives any breakthrough. That must reach a dream.