The future is not a distant concept but a reality we are stepping into. We hold the power to shape it, and this is the choice we face.

There are new ages in which we are trying to participate in space. They have new cooperation and relationships with space.

We ought to make the future and the world since the future must have its promise.

We can't find any distance to the future. That means we do not have time.

All new possibilities are truths we will have in the future. That means we have all new technology and cooperation with the space.

The world may be reconstructed under a new system and agreement. A fair and righteous world is the only permission we have that we can seek for the future.

As we can see, all politicians make decisions for the world as a new world.

Any progress in academics is the promise we see any hope in the future.

From history, we have faced the future under all its hopes for the first time. And we are trying to make a new world.

To expand our stages into space is all its possibilities and the truth we are facing now.

As you may know, we have proposed a new world based on unique ideas from our office.

We have dreamed of the future as we try to create a world totally anew.

The word is promised, which means the world must be promised.
