I give you an answer. There are many explanations for the world, but I know the truth.

Hatred creates conflict, and it creates social problems. But love gives a reconciliation. That solves any issues.

We have a choice that gives us the future.

In the future, we could think of new ideas. That may permit any opportunity for all people since any problems are all from hatred.

The world is under the hands of all people. They must talk their word to the world since they need a future.

Love could be any common. This serves as reality with its unification.

Politics has a lead. They are the ones who run the head of the world.

Under any argument, we find an answer. That may be love.

There are two bases of the world. That is love and hatred. There is a difference between goodness and evil. But we see love is the only solution.

We could dare of the heroes since they must inherit the world.

To see all eyes of children, we must find love. If the world has anything wrong, we must take responsibility for it.

All wars are the tragedy. We only find pain and suffering as tears.

If we need a new world, we could find a king from the political field. With him, we could follow.
