

From domination by violence to shared peace

July 14th, 2024

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

The result of war is indeed a world dominated by violence. All beings are victims of this reality.

Hatred, as history has shown, only begets more hatred. It is a vicious cycle that offers no real solutions.

The past of survival and war has given way to the reality of domination over time. This is the control of the Matrix.

We see that any principle is rooted in the survival principle. And it may occur in all wars in history. And it may govern the world under violence. Even if we put our eyes on the economy, the competition principle is as such as it is.

In opposition to all these, we find peace. And it may accept all ideals and dreams.

These are the differences between law and its philosophy. And all laws and philosophy based on all reality of the world and the future.

Conquering all its necessities of survival gives us an idea of the future, with a world without pain and suffering.

Survival and competition with admiring victory of all battles as the world reaches under its control by Matrix. So, if we seek the future, we need its opposition to all realities.

If all people are only victims, the world is defined as hell. This is the description of the world in the movie Matrix.

We have to determine for ourselves to create paradise. And these are the duties of all politicians. We have sent all our visions to the world. You may have all your choices.

