

Governing the world

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

Under the new world system, we are trying to ask for all further creation of the world.

Standardized systems should govern the world in any region of the world. New technology could ask for its use in the future.

All machinery production under its shift to industry 4.0 standard could ask for new efficiency of lives as digitalized reality must govern any validity within.

Expand our reality to the universe that could give us a new reality on earth.

The world must be governed under its unification by its political environment and must ask for the future.

These are the new world design we are trying to share with the world.

All revolutionary changes in the future are with new communication, transportation, and social system.

We have a potential for the future. And we can see that there is more than all progress in the future.

All these new systems of the world could be under the agreement of any nation. It is a new creation of the world.

The new system could serve equal livelihood to all peoples, even in any region of the world.

As we know, we have new space ages. These are the possibility that we could find in the future.

These are the reasons we need a new world system.
