

History of wars and considering for a reality today

November 18th, 2023

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

The history is filled up with wars. That is all reality we need to understand. How the wars are occurring, and what is the reason? There must be the same logic and reason for them, even all the reality we have today.

I could define them as survival principles. All these bases could seek profit, which is a reality of wars.

All these ideas give us another idea that to conquer all the necessities of survival, we could create a new reality in the world.

Desire must be based on the above. And we see all these are the hobbies of the animal.

All this means if we are standing against any reality of the world, we need to make rational decisions.

Any changes we see in the future may cause all emotional movement in reality. Still, even under all these circumstances, we need to have a rational attitude toward any reality we will have in the future.

To guarantee all survival requirements by the society and the nation, and we conquer ourselves in its progress. We could share all ideals in reality as the future continues.

These are the fundamentals of progress and new civilizations, from hobbies of animals to the creativity of human beings.

As we may consider new philosophy as new socialism, it could be based on a coming new technological civilization.

We see that new world systems are under new ideas and thoughts as the Western camp has a world today.