

Humanity's challenge of overcoming survival

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

The need to survive is all the needs of humanity in the past. Therefore, overcoming it is a challenge for society.

Technology gives us progress in life. Progress in academics gives us away from all illnesses.

Creating wealth in the economy gives us away from the poor.

We may consider that we have now time to reconsider the world. Since we have all possible to create a world anew.

Under the logic of survival, capitalism is a competition to gain wealth. They are even asking for life with their labor under capitalism.

So the song of Imagine by Mr. John Lennon may not be wrong, but it progresses all understandings.

There is all creation by philosophy with a world that is called socialism. We have found its progress in North Europe.

As we may be right that we are facing a decision. That is determined by the future.

As politics take full responsibility. From our office to the world, we are asking for your decision.