

If we determine that we are in a new alliance, we will see a change in all realities.

April 27th, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

Conflict may divide the world into two different parts. But under any circumstances we have with a world today, there are separations between the white race, the Jewish race, and the others.

The increase in world military expenditures is a new reality of war. In response, we can propose that all nations agree to abolish war and reduce their military forces.

We only find a solution that is a dialogue itself, to share ideas and make all the agreements of the world.

Then, we have a new alliance with the world under a new agreement to share ideas for the future.

We may know these differ from conscience and humanism in all criminal matters.

Under any argument, we may find a new world principle that is totally away from any occupation of any reality under massive capital.

And lying down in front of us is all the use of new technology, which promises us a new society.

These conversations are consistent conversations of conscience from all spheres of the world, which may create a new world.

The world must have new world systems, which any academic may consider and ask to be accepted by all people.

All politics can determine those and realize them all in the world and the future.