

Joining the world in responsibility

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

West takes a presence and leads the world. This has a reason. They take full responsibility, that is why.

We are trying with a new reality that we are trying to ask for the same responsibility as the West.

These could make possible new relationships with the world. Further cooperation could ask for all participants of any nationality and roots.

We have to know that all presence of the West is all from as they take full responsibility for the world.

Sharing these responsibilities requires shifting from the childishness of rights to the independent self of responsibility.

They propose a new idea of sharing the world against the future of a clash of civilizations.

These things can realize the transition from the childishness of pursuing rights to the mature world in the new cooperation.

These are reconciliations, not conflicts, and explicit declarations of participation in the new world.

These are the creation of new worlds in shared responsibility and are the only ones that give us the right to participate in the future.