KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We had long conversations from our office to the world. But now I am back in my life, and I can talk to the world.

Only I reached the conclusion that all competition and survival laws are the same as the hierarchy of nature by its animals and plants. We have the same reality under liberalism in humanity's world.

We have all the necessities to conquer all its survival rules and reach new civilizations. In the world, we are away from all the requirements of survival and the creation of any purpose or dreams.

Politics may lead any reality and the future under all its consensus. And we need to argue with international society to recreate the world.

As we tried to create a new world under our ideas and thought. We are trying to offer the world new decisions.

These are the differences between animal needs and intellectual creativity.

And we see these are the choices of the world to reach any possibility called a future.

These are any proof of our progress from any histories.

These are the ideas from which we are away from any conflict.

All choice is in your hands, not mine. And it makes the world of the future.

We may dream of a world without any pain and suffering. Any tears must be away from the world in which we have dreamed a new world.
