All this means to take full responsibility for the world and people. And righteous action is the only permission we can work for.

These responsibilities allow all new possibilities to create the future.

As we face any reality of the world, we all know all truth with any reality we put ourselves into. But we only dare to seek the future and make our own decisions.

If we try to gather the whole world under any visions we offer, how could we expect any difference in reality?

Not with any conflict, but trying to share the same future. And we see there must ask for any purpose from the universe.

Peace may be an agreement we could share with the world under any tragedy we have today. Abandon wars may be the new world we could step into.

All these contain ideals and consequences we could share. And reality must follow them.

We have a future without any doubt, but it comes only under all our decisions. That is what we have to work for.

Only then could we reach hope. And all these are owned by all politics.

Suppose we can not cause against reality. All reality must govern the world. We have to ask for our decision. That is a habit of humans but enslaved people.

As we mentioned, responsibility is permission to step into the world. And then we need our actions.
