Motivation

Kuroda International Consulting
Takeshi Kuroda

Under all these business environments. We find motivation in profit and competition. But how could we circulate all proper environment in the company?

What motivates business if a business asks for responsibility for society and the world?

Equal salary and management under a team could ask for a purpose in business. Under all these environments, how could we find motivation in business?

The purpose should give motivation. That means proper construction of a business must ask for a base and any structure of all details in business.

Correct corporate ethics form proper motivation. These are the same in a corporate environment.

All these are the challenge to be in touch with the new reality in business as all creation of contemporary reality in the future.

Fair rules and bases could be all sources we can find a base of motivation as the business has a creation of the future.

The creation of the dream is a new trend we can find worldwide. New technology could serve all new dreams.

Business with a mind of fun. We are forwarding to a way of the road out of all competition.
