

Mutual understanding and the choice of conscience

December 30th, 2023

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

The composition of all conflicts proposes a new future of dialogue and understanding.

Conscience may be the only agreement we may find in the future. Even as we calculate the world's reality, we may ask and share all these agreements with any nation.

Conscience may be any basis we may ask for any reality in the future. Then we have all explanation of all possibility to any reality we could share with the world.

There must be any creation of reality under all these consensus and rules, and laws may follow them.

If we dare to seek any cooperation from any nation, even expand to the whole universe, conscience may be all its agreement of itself.

Mutual understanding is the basis of new cooperation, even all its unification of themselves.

We could consider all conflict and confusion; all those lack mutual understanding but insist on their own profit out of kindness to others.

If we ask for any diplomacy, we have the proper basis for its consensus of ourselves.

We have a choice in the future, but none of these must ask for any failures to have the right idea, mutual understanding, and conscience.

These are the right attitudes to stand against the world.

There should not be any conflict, but new cooperation may only be itself with proper ideas.

We can reach our dreams, so we need the right action. Politics must be with them so that they can achieve their ways.