

Neom from Saudi Arabia with a smart city of reality

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We can put ourselves back in the past. That is all truth we are facing in the future.

This gives us the idea that if we rule a new society by society 5.0, these are the creation of the future that we can find.

But we find an idea for the future. We must follow all investments and standards with all these new realities.

A new society must be based on contemporary education. These are the law of the future.

How may we move away from the past? The comfort and efficiency of the new reality are a complete break from the past.

That gives us a new reality: we have all recent changes and movements today as all these reach the same idea. It must be called a future.

Let me ask you a question. Who is failing in the future? That is all necessary, and we need a change.

We find all evolutionary changes today. These must reach a new world with a new reality. All these are the new technological civilizations that we find a future.

This new society is as same as we find with society 5.0. That means all political decisions must follow these standards as so as all industries.

All these realities may not be ignored because the future must be according to all realities.

We insist that political consensus must be required to reach a new world.