The world must exist for all beings. This understanding is crucial for us to build a new world and future. Politicians, in particular, must grasp this reality to navigate the chaos of our current world. A just world and future can only be realized through right political action. This is the essence of our agreement of responsibility, which proposes the creation of that future. The rules of a new world are the only ones that can unlock new possibilities based on the agreement of all beings.

If the future is hopeless, we must pursue all political responsibility. If we rim our hands to the future, we must promise that we will find all new hopes in it.

If hope only exists with people in the Ukraine and Gaza Strip, we can't steal from their people. And it must be the responsibility of all politicians to which they must work.

We have all changes in reality today; These are the progress of reality we face. And we see, we have a new future based on all these changes.

Who dares to take all responsibility for the world and its future? And who yelled himself to seek the right?

We have all the possibilities to reach an agreement on the new world. This may be the new consensus of the International Society.

We may not lose all hope, which causes us to make new decisions and choices.

What can you find in the world today? We have a proper idea for seeing the future.

Politics always decide the world. These are the responsibilities they have to the world.

And we can see that the future is in their hands.
