The outlawing of all war, the abolition of military forces, and the conversion to a Unified Space Force, along with agreement on new world justice, propose and agree upon a new world framework for all nations.

We may agree to shift to a new technological civilization with cooperation from all nations.

We still have more than we have a unified declaration to make a full participation of the universe.

All these are proposals from our office to international society to create new decisions for the new future.

We may cooperate with all universe residents under new collaboration to make all our new realities in the universe. Still, we may cooperate to recreate any reality in our societies.

It proposes dividing the world into regions and, in their union, gradually transitioning to world unity.

All new debate goes to the United Nations to seek and agree on the new world.

These are any ideas we ask for agreement by all nations to share a new future and the world.

Given the above, we may argue about new world systems and frameworks encompassing the new world.

We know that all these are political decisions made by all the politicians in any region of the world.

Politics always leads the world and makes all things new. And he does have his own decisions.
