

New design of region by Asia

Office of International Consulting
Kuroda
Takeshi Kuroda

We are trying to invest in all new development in the region. There are based on AIIB, and all measure comes from society 5.0.

These are with the new communication systems and transportation infrastructure. The planned urban development and housing development also require the most excellent living environment.

These are based upon all agreements of nations. The limited government spends capital on academics and infrastructure development for the region's future.

It calls for the development of self-industry in domestic demand and clear ownership of domestic capital by companies.

In administrative decisions, all infrastructure standards are sought in Society 5.0, and all new administrative plans are unified under this standard.

These gather all the highest technologies, and all technologies ask for their use in society and life.

The creation of plans in the bureaucracy brings together the best talent in the region, creates regional designs and action plans, and achieves the formation of Asian unity and the region's development, together with the agreement of the heads of state in the region.