

New economic map with new financial systems

November 7th, 2023

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

Waiting for a new digitalized society and economic system, any reality of economy seeks for the future.

We have a new money system that may cover all new economic realities. We find a hierarchy of the economy in all calculations under currency rates. Each nation's financial condition may cause the economy's collapse at globalization.

These may be thought of as a new world with new economic systems. These might be called great resets that create the future.

We see the world major in business and economy. All their technology and progress may create a new world.

The advanced industries' high profitability and far greater development costs make them seek monopolies. These are the realities that necessarily govern free trade systems.

All these prove that we need our political action and make an entire strategy for economic policy.

And we find that we have a new monetary system and economic rule in the future.

The highest technology has the highest profit; international financial transactions make money under its vast capital. These are the advantage and presence of all realities.

And we must know all these presences may not be reached, and a settlement of all reality we must follow. Equal bases only make it possible with the same realities.

And new governance of reality must be covered under new economic and monetary systems.

Under national security, we must build systems to ask for the future.