

New efficiency of society and new cost standards for politics

November 26th, 2023

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

Digitalization makes new efficiency of reality possible. And the lowest cost standard may be a consensus of politics that makes all new possibilities possible under the creation of realities.

National Finance could realize all possibilities under the new cost standard. We need to build plenty of reality with all new technology and systems.

America's simplification and efficiency have established dramatic efficiency and low-cost social management as the foundation of a digital society. On the other hand, there are countries that have a reality of inefficiency and unprofitability.

Cost standards in national expenditures can expand that possibility. If current fiscal spending can create a tenfold reality, this means that the future can be constructed easily.

On the other hand, these are the systematization of society. IoT and IT systems may improve any realities.

All its efficiency gives all productivity. And new cost standards improve life conditions. These are the truths of a Digitalized society.

All these could be a basis for seeking further possibilities in reality. These are the new technological civilization we are promised in the future.

We may describe all the details of the vision of the future. Politics may ask for a new consensus for the nation.

These are the creations of the future. And we may dream of a future under the new reality.

When we visit all bureaucrats, we should be able to understand the reality of the future.