We are achieving a society and life construction equivalent to advanced countries in the new five-year plan.

They are enacting a new global strategy based on the economic sphere and military cooperation in the Asian Unification Initiative.

In addition, self-transformation in next-generation technology and research in all national fields will foster self-industry and develop infrastructure for domestic demand.

They carry out revolutionary political consensus changes similar to the Cultural Revolution.

These will turn the current diplomatic strategy of confrontation 180° and build a new self-security in a new self-stance of peace and cooperation.

These changes give a new national image and a shift in domestic politics. These are participations in the world in choosing from the reality of confrontation to cooperation and reconciliation.

These call for bilateral discussions with the United States and require an explanation of a new stance and a basis for peace and cooperation worldwide.

Political responsibility to the people requires striving for the best society and life.

These are the new signals to the world of the agreement of cooperation and peace from the choice of war and destruction.

Politics determines a nation. That gives us the idea that you can make a world.
