

New foreign affairs and new world framework

January 13th, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

Sharing ideas and agreeing on a new world framework can lead to shared decisions and propose expanding cooperation.

Preferential treatment given to the five major powers and the right to possess nuclear weapons is a sign of world domination through force and a breeding ground for conflict.

So, with most nations, we can propose a new world framework.

These are any proposals we are away from any contract but agree for a new world consensus.

And if all these majorities decide with the vote, we may find a fair world against unfairness.

These are new opportunities to seek foreign affairs since the world has been given new ideas.

The new world system and all new foundation of all reality should be agreed upon by its volunteers by any nation.

We have been proposing all its ideas from our office to the world. We are so eager to seek from all its hopes from realities.

It is the responsibility of adults to pass on the world to children.

This must be our last challenge to ask for the world. The show must go on. This is why.

We are trying to get back to life. We are gifted with all new dreams, which are called futures.

I have all the honor of having this conversation with the world. King always had a decision about the world, and that was the last word we could send to the world.