

New futures under the unification of the world

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We could imagine that the unification of the world has a new future. We have a future, and time faces a new age of space.

A standardized system must govern any region under unification. The bureaucracy could design the new world.

As I could insist, there is more than any possibility lying in front of us all. We have new technology, the age of space, and all further cooperation with the universe.

How could we see the future? We can find more than any dreams now to all future to go.

King may determine all by himself. We may have all new dreams for the future.

Equal opportunity may be asked for dreams by all people. As we face a new world, we can find a future.

In history, the world asked for further progress in all regions. Still, in the age of the moment today, the world could seek for its unification under globalization of the world.

There are more than any variety of differences in any culture and civilization. But the wave of globalization asks for the unification of the world.

Any progress in academics may reach and seek a new world. And we are not limited to the earth but ask for further steps into the universe.

With the earth, we are trying to create a new society under new systems. The economy could step itself under a free economy with all new creations.

We may stand the end of history that causes us to make unification of ourselves.

As what only remains is our choice, that is what we are asking from our office to the world.