Western camp pay all responsibility for the world. That is all their presence we are following. But if we are trying to share all its commitment, how can we find the change in reality?

We know there are all tails of the world under its control. But we have all worth to act them in our realities.

The world is held up with all efforts under humanitarian actions. All these consensuses lead international society. And we need to participate in all these realities.

This is a proper way to share the world. And we could find new possibilities to cooperate with the world.

We find all changes with different attitudes of ourselves. The future must be changed under all these differences.

Consequences may be an agreement of the new world. Under new consensus, we could rebuild all relationships with the world.

The shift from conflict to reconciliation is a departure from the self's dependence on the Western conscience.

If we change our minds, we find all changes in any reality.

We have a choice for our future. Decisions give us the future.

To see all the eyes of the children in the Gaza Strip, we find any truth of the world. That is a choice that we are required to make.

Justice may not be lies. That is what we could find for the future.
