Challenge is the right choice to win the future. Opening up the end is the sole privilege of the challengers.

A battle is only gained by conditional on victory. This is the only choice that gives self-reality.

This is the correct participation in the future. And the saying that the pen is mightier than the sword is because it depends on words, not blades, to have people's hearts.

Ideas do not exist in an illusion. It has its realization in action.

Courage is the only right choice to change reality.

When the masses are separated, the self can have a single idea and own the world.

Wealth and the military rule the world. You have two choices. Either fight or flee. Victory is always given in fighting.

It is a who owns the world. This is a winner, never with a loser.
