

New socialism

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

To make a complete agreement to serve equal lives to all peoples, we may consider the new socialism. This could base them on basis income and build a new social system under society 5.0.

Politics takes a duty for all people. That is the basis of the new socialism to settle society and lives.

We have a promise of new technological civilization in the future. We should agree with new social systems.

Even expanding our vision to the world, there is a new basis for foreign affairs. We have liberalism, but we have all social problems under all its common. New socialism insists on an equal life environment for all people.

We have a philosophy on the tail of any realities. This is not any humor. The construction of any reality is based on the progress of academics as the philosophy. So, new socialism could be sought under all related to any academics.

Society could be based on socialism and philosophy. These are a creation of any civilization, and we have the use of new technology that requires any construction of its bases.

Expanding all new possibilities of new technologies and social basis is fully required to move forward with new possibilities.

All these are with new consensus of politics to realize new realities.

We have a future, which means we have a choice for them.