

New system of the new world

May 19th, 2024

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

Currently, we operate under the principles of liberalism, a free economic system, and capitalism, which is driven by competition. These principles are upheld by our free trade system.

But in the coming future, with new technological civilization, we may find new rules for the future.

This means we may consider the world. And new systems must adjust to new realities.

We could consider new rules as new socialism without any competition. Capitalism occupies all wealth in its possession. So, fair rules in the economy must be considered.

Competition is under the expansion of survival principles. So, if we are trying to conquer survival, we could find new laws and rules that must be the world without pain and suffering.

Society must be rebuilt under new systems since new technology gives us the promise of the future.

Any progress in sociology and philosophy may propose the world's systems.

We must find new systems based on the world to make us into the new world. Conflicts and wars must be solved under the same principles and agreement. These may be other reasons we are proposing a new world system.

War can not be accepted in any future reality, and the world is unified under the same consensus.

Recreation and new systems and rules must be based on the future, and we are finally reaching the future from the past, as we put all our efforts into making new hopes in the world.