

New world framework

October 20th, 2023

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We could propose a new framework as we seek a new world. These are the latest technological civilization with full participation in the universe.

With all new alliances with the universe, they may serve a new reality and the way to the whole universe. Further communication, transportation, and lifelines could be built by new systems and technology under the lead of all politics. Any industry may shift its values with a new creation of the region.

All these give us a necessity of national security of self since we do not put ourselves into paradise but a reality.

Then, we are trying to propose a new world framework under a new money system and trade and military agreement. That comes with our proposal, not with their decision.

We need to find one truth. Choice and decision could belong to self for all nations and peoples.

And we must know that war should not be rejected under all these circumstances. Under all these realities, we are trying to propose a new world framework.

For one truth, idealists must put him into the dream. But realists may seek for a new world.

As we know, we need the right decision. Any failure should give us all failure.

If we do not have time for the coming reality, that means we have to make it now but any after. That must be a difference if we find a future or not.

The new world framework should be the future we could dream of. And on the other hand, we have all reality. These are not irony but reality we have with the world.