Liberalism and capitalism end with possession of the world. That means we do not have a complete world system.

It's imperative that we rebuild new world systems, ones that liberate us from the conflicts that currently plague our world.

A free economic system allows for world financial growth. They also possess the world.

We have envisioned a new socialism that is devoid of conflict and competition. This new social system, with its potential to provide a basic income, could be the beacon of hope for a more equitable future.

The Communist Party is destroyed by a lack of freedom, which is the right to make one's own decisions, as it may be called liberalism.

And we see this is all justice of the liberal camp.

Survival demands. It requires an economy that has competition under the free economic system.

Humanism is common to all nationalities and races; it may be an entire agreement of the world to face any world issues, and we can agree to abandon any wars on the ground of the earth.

We have all new technology and systems that have the potential to recreate the world. That means society 5,0 and standardized measure may be all commons of its tails of the new world.

These can be proposed as common resolutions at the UN General Assembly.
