

New world with new world systems

June 19th, 2024

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

Competition and conflict are the bases of the world. Instead, new socialism without competition and conflict may seek a new world system with a new world.

As we, together, embark on the journey to propose a new world system and redefine the world, from our office to the global stage, we are collectively shaping a future that is right in front of us all.

New rules may cause us to make our steps into the future, and it may expand them to the whole universe under new dreams.

To pay all responsibility for all people so that all these consensus may serve them with a new future.

The new world must require him with a new system. So we told you we are moving from competition to new laws. Competition is the basis of any conflict.

We insist on new socialism as a new system of basic income. We are trying to invite you to a new journey.

May I ask for your dreams? I am inviting you to your Santa Claus.

All these are the new cooperations with space to recreate all the reality here on this ground.

As we find, all these circumstances may cause a new unification of the world.

This website describes the plan, and we only need our actions.

Politics makes their steps, and then we can find a new world.

