

Next-generation society and life

November 4th, 2023

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We are facing a new future under technological revolutions. They have a use for the creation of efficiency and comfortability.

We have all shifted from the past to the future. We have to know ancient may not have held any technology, but we have expanded all possibilities under the Industrial Revolution.

One thing we have to be sure of is that we have a law called a free economic system.

Politics may design a new society under its plan or actions. This means that bureaucratic organizations are capable of creating contemporary societies.

Society 5.0 and Industry 4.0 is a shift to new realities. Digital society has a new efficiency in any field of society.

We may know that this is a new technological civilization under its design of nations. We are leaving any history to any future.

Under all these circumstances, we are struggling with existing realities, but politics must make its decision.

As we insist, these are the creation under the free economic system. But politics may ask for its presence to a new reality as we have all the necessities of industries with a new system.

Winners only reach the future. That is all the reason we have to pay for all our efforts.

These are the reconstruction of its nation under the new standard. That means politics must lead all these realities.

We also need any circulation by the political environment as we need all data and plans. We might know this is a creation of the future.