

Next society

KURODA INTERNATIONAL

Takeshi Kuroda

This is not a dream but a reality that we have to know. Technology and system are creating a new society. To be wise, this is an all reality we have today.

The industry with competition principle occupies the world. That means there are new kings we have today.

The Next society is based on society 5.0 and IOT with a new communication infrastructure gained by new technology and system cause new lives.

These technologies are bases we spend ourselves upon with ant creation of the world. I world suggest that academics, if we ask the use of itself, more than any reality governed by politics that may be seen unexpected society.

The political environment world covers the new society. These are new technological civilizations with full participation in the universe. Politics must know this turning point with its decisions.

The social system may be moving forward to basic income and asking for labor duty.

New social infrastructure must be required with new technology and IoT communication bases.