

Next standard

December 14th, 2023

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

The future is waiting. We need a new standard of self and nation. We are trying to recreate the world under new standards.

All these are the basis of the new space age. We have a contemporary society and new life in the future. We need all reconstruction of reality in industry, military, culture, education, and politics.

All these are the redesign of the world to adjust any reality right in front of us all.

We have a promise in the future. That is all new use of technologies.

The new standard is all common we may ask for the future with its bases. These are the basis of a new world we may ask for with new standards.

As we are trying to recreate the world. All new technology must ask for its basis of social and national fundamentals. as we insist on philosophies.

Any academic consideration may be based on future realities. That should be any agreement of all politics.

And we need to stand equal to the universe under any alliance we may have in the future.

All new social systems must provide equal opportunity for all peoples and children with their education and reality itself.

We now find a future. That causes us to make all new activities in the world.

We had a choice. And we will make them with all new world that we may dream and share with any nationality and race.