

Only a necessity called independence

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We need not to be stolen by self. That permits us to seek in the future.

Do make things with yourself in everything. That allows one to possess self in reality.

Under two different realities, we have a distant future. Through I was trying not to have any permission from the others. That is a way of independence.

We need to make our realities in any political decision. If the others steal from you, They must complete all the decisions. And if we seek a war, we have the correct result.

How could we draw our future? We all know the truth in the world. And the answer is independence. That means doing things by yourself.

Independence only permits the future. That gives us a reason to know how we could find ourselves in the future. And you may think of yourself as someone who possesses you and your future. That also gives you a result of the wars.

How do the others steal you? Your independence is stolen by them.

Any fundamental of reality that has a necessity to be calculated to be known.

We find an answer. We have to do and make things by ourselves in everything. And any political consensus must follow them.

We need to make our future, but never be their future. As we send all the plans., we could realize them under independence.

As I have insisted, independence is the only condition to stand equally to any realities as the world.