

Philosophy and academics, and tails of the new world

December 30th, 2024

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

Recreation of all realities under use of all progress of any academics which permits us to make all things new. And we are gifted with all the latest technology and systems.

We may know that any civilization must be based on philosophy, the progress of all humanities.

We must know that academics may recreate all realities with its use. We need all reconsideration by all progress of any academics which permit all progress of reality and creation of society and livelihoods.

Philosophy is the progress of all humanities, which we continuously carry from history to the future. Where do we find any fundamental truths about reality? These are all from academics and philosophy.

If we ask for any steps forward that make a new society and a nation, we need all academics and philosophies.

These are both sides of the requirement: technology and new systems, and the others are all progress and the use of academics and philosophies.

We are trying to make a new world, which could be based on the new world itself.

We are promised to make new civilizations. All these are the progress of humanity, which must realize all new lifestyles and realities. We are even permitted to make our journey to the universe.

These are the realities all politicians are forced to face in the future. If one decides, we can promise to realize all these realities.

These are the proper understanding and choices of the future; we may choose ourselves in all our hopes.