

Possibility and the world

January 13th 2026

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

The world has its choice. And it is a decision of the future and the world itself.

We can see that these are the realities all politics are forced to make. We have no reality in the world with all the changes today.

All possibility is fully found today for all people. But instead of all the progress of technology, the world has its confusions.

I believe politics can change the world under new visions and systems that they may propose. And they have all the decisions of the world.

The world may ask for new systems. And new rules may gather the agreement of all nations. These are the realities instead of any reality we have today in the world.

All progress of humanity may ask their agreement, but not all people can fail in the future. We can see that all these are the duties of all politics.

All these are what we can propose to the world. And new dialogue may be given under a new consensus.

And we have a new contact with the universe. All its contacts may share the same futures. We may know politics only has its decision on it.

Under all these points of view, we may redesign the world, which is caused by all the new talent that may be gathered from any region of the world.

Politics is always the king who has the decision over all realities. We are proposing all new ideas to them.

KURODA International

Should we have any response?