The future without any pain and suffering may be the promise that we will all progress in academics and technology. We can't fail ourselves in the future that we may dream of.

All these are from any actions of all politics that we may try to seek for all duty to the world.

For all people, we may pay all our duty to recreate the world with all hopes. But in reality, we have to contain all disappointment, but politics must determine themselves to make a new world.

We are trying to offer any design for the next society where we have all new interests in the new world.

Hope is any direction we continuously carry from the past to the future. And that is where we can follow. We need Santa Claus for all children. We must be the ones who create the future.

Recreation of reality began with a small reality, but it may expand to all. That is, all our efforts to have a new conversation with the world.

Duty and responsibility are attitudes toward our actions in the world, and conscience is any decision we make.

These are all I need to say to the world. And all politics must take over any suggestion of ours and make a new world.

The world is for everyone, which means no one can fail in the future. This is the duty of any politician.

We tried to change the world under new visions and ideas; who may agree with us, and how can we work for it?
