

Proposal of a new world management form

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We could propose new world management systems as we find all new relationships with the universe.

There is a way of unification of the world. The unity of global operations is about sharing decisions and political actions.

These are the proposal of the world government. And we are trying to take all votes of all nations. We might take a majority, but we must see the new world order on the other hand.

And there must be all decisions from the universe. And we would argue and seek a new reality in the world then.

They agreed to design and plan a new world by convening the best bureaucrats and to realize the creation of a new future in these.

Under the standard of Society 5.0, the new world could be built with all new infrastructures in all regions under standardized of them.

We need all decisions with any relationship and cooperation with the universe. Also, we need a decision for the world.

All these are proposed under the consensus of a new world without suffering.

Creating a new technological civilization will build a new world, and providing technology in collaboration with space can make a different reality possible.

All these totally stand against the new world order. That means all these may unify all army forces, and we could stand against the world.

We need to make a decision and take new actions.