

Reconstructing the World Framework

June 2nd, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

The world rule is falling. Instead of the current reality of the world, we may propose a new world framework.

We may discover a new world principle that is based on all new futures. These may be an agreement of all politics.

How can we find all those? We need to gather all talent from any academic background. And these are the results of all its dialogue and the creation of a new philosophy based on its foundations.

This is why the pen is mightier than the sword. And it may be all tails of civilian control.

We are standing right in front of new futures. These are new technological civilizations and the next society. We need our courage to open its doors. And politics can realize them all.

If we can gather intelligence about the world and engage in dialogue with all peoples, races, and nationalities, we may find common ground to move forward into the future.

This consensus may recreate the world under all the progress of humanities. And it may be familiar with all races and nationalities.

We can see that these are not causing any conflict but rather promoting peace and a better future.

We can find all conflicts in the world today. But these may be solved under the same ideal and the future.

And all its dialogue may create any reality under a new vision and any ideas.
After all, all politics may ask their decisions.