

Recreation of Framework and systems

October 24th, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

All these are the basis of the world and the future. And we have all changes today under the progress of realities. To adjust to the future, we may propose a new world system.

These are the recreation of the world, and these consensuses may be an agreement to recreate the world itself; we may propose a new world itself.

These are the rules and laws that may contain a world. You can see we are under the influence of power politics, which may be the reality itself.

All nations can explore a new world based on equality, not on their own superiority.

We have a field of reality in the world. But any reality may require new systems and frameworks.

If paradise may not be an illusion but a possibility within our progress, we can reach a new world through a new consensus.

We can see there are two different realities of the world. One with power and one with justice. And all these are calculated by Langley and exploded by CNN.

So that fairness and agreement may be the decision of the world, and we may propose conscience.

With all the above, the world may ask for his new systems and frameworks.

These are the agreements, we are not forced by, but willing to make all our new steps into the future.

These are the realities of global politics, and they have reached a new level.