New technology and new rules may create a new world. We have capitalism, a Free economic system, liberalism, and a free trade system.

But may we find a new world under new world systems?

All new societies and towns may be rebuilt, and new lifestyles may be the reality in the future.

We have a new possibility of redesigning the world and the future. Excellent bureaucrats may ask themselves to dream of a new world.

We could make our vision of the future. And we are trying to make all the details.

All these are the new possibilities we have today in the world. And we need new cooperation to share the world.

All technology and progress in any academic field have more potential than any to make any dream from the past be compared to the future.

King may dream of his nation. And he can redesign the nation.

It could be based on the new philosophy. Philosophy is the core of all progressed civilizations.

All talent and skills may ask for their own design of the world as we have sent any ideas from our office.

We must fully use any system and technologies to rebuild the world under new rules. All these show the reason that the new reality must be based on new regulations.

As we have new systems and technologies today, we need to ask them to use them; these cause us to redesign the world.
