

Standing against the Justice of the US

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We have all in common with the justice of the US. Under all globalization, we see freedom and democracy. All this justice is the definition of all reality of the world.

But we may consider a difference between them. We could ask for progress from it.

We could see any problems with these realities. If we ask for any solution, we have a decision for the future.

As we see all livelihoods of all peoples. Then, we may ask for justice. Justice must give us hope and dreams.

I am not saying that their justice is from CIA and Media control, but we have to ask for any adjustment to life of all people.

Philosophical progress may be the right measure for any progress. That is a reason I insist philosophy gives a future and the world.

It was the age of the USA in the 20th century, and we still have a future.

If the holiness and divines may seek justice, then what are those we find in the world?

Truth must be the basis of any discussion and conversation. That is based on us to seek the future.

Suppose we follow not with justice but truth. What could be a decision of the world?

As we consider, based on all progress, we may find better ideas and justice.

The future must contain progress but retrogression. All these mean humanity has progressed from history to the future.
