

The Anglo-Saxon League and the Jews

September 17th, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

These are the backbone of the world, and their equivalent is its capital.

We now face all the realities of the world, and we have our choice of how we can manage the world under any ideas.

Their justice is expanded under Langley and CNN. And it is all conscience of the world in which we live.

And these are the choices we have in the world. Technological evolution is the reality we have in the world today.

These are the necessities for us to have our economic policy. We need to decide how we are going to shape the future.

We can see that they have their world views, but instead, we may have ours. And these are new conversations with a world under new ideas.

These are any dialogues we are trying to share with the world. This is how we are trying to immerse ourselves in international societies.

We have to hold all our realities, which are capital, industry, and military powers. And this is only permission for us to step into any reality of the world.

We are all prepared to face new futures, and these are the latest creations under any evolved realities, even making new alliances with the universe.

All politics have their decisions, and they make the future itself.

These are all tail and new designs of our realities, which may lead to a new future and a better world.

KURODA International