The choice is always giving a future. These are the choices of confrontation and conflict and the choices of reconciliation and cooperation. Responsibility to the world is contingent on sharing equal responsibilities in its maintenance and operation. This is understood in the 20th century and now in the West fulfilling its duties and owning the world's processes.

If we may ask for a new world, all different roots ask for an agreement and seek the same world in full cooperation.

These are proposals for a new participation in their ideas based on their cultural characteristics in the face of the new reality of the Chinese encirclement network. These are new national policies of cooperation in sincere dialogue.

They propose a new world of agreement of reconciliation from the reality of confrontation.

These are necessary choices between two realities: love and hate.

As never lose, the future continuously expands in all dreams. That causes us to make its decision.

These are choices for two different futures: war and cooperation.

That I have to ask, what do you dream about in your future? That must come from your decision and choice.
