

The correct calculation for any reality of the world

December 5th, 2024

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

The world has plans for the future, and it follows them. These are the realities of today.

The amount of capital and military power correctly calculates any realities we have to win a world.

These are the basis for creating any future reality. If the world follows all reality, we will have no choice but to find the future.

Then, what should we decide? These are all the matters we face and must consider when making our decisions.

We tried to redesign the world based on our ideas. These are the possibilities we may seek in the future.

We find that hope is the only way the world continues, from history to the future. Then, you may make your decision about the world today.

When we step into the world, we find massive capitals that control the economy and any progress in technology in the Western camp. These are the top presence in all of the realities of the world today.

If we desire equal presence in the world, we need to possess the same condition and reality, which only permits us to create our own reality.

All ideals and justice must confront reality and the world's truth. They are judgments of all these realities.

We have a choice to follow the world or try to cause the world.