

The duty of politics is to serve life to all people.

Office
of
Kuroda International Consulting
Takeshi Kuroda

There is poor and moral decadence, and we ask for a solution to all reality. Basic income and guarantees of a fundamental life could be the next base for age and society.

This means that society has a foundation on which survival and livelihood are fully guaranteed.

As the duty of politics is to serve the life of people, above is a new reality of the bases of new eras,

There we may ask for the new possibility for life and society. There is a new movement in the progress of technology under its use.

These give all benefits to the reconstruction of social systems using new systems and technology.

A new sociology is a new base we could ask for any realities.

To seek what is a duty for politics, we may find the duty for all peoples and solve all societal problems. So, all new realities could be accepted under politics, and they could ask for further actions above to find a necessity for waiting for a new era to participate in the universe.

As we may consider all new capacities and possibilities based on all new social systems, there are all solutions, and we may seek new options.

These are the ideal we may share in the world, and new equality is based on creating new realities.