

The future of the world read from the economy.

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

The world requires itself with its industry to hold a lifeline. We find economic security today with the Western Camp. How could we forecast the future?

Top-progressed technology seeks a new future and the world. Businesses with a free economic system create the world. And with sure of itself, we have a future.

Under the vision of the Anglo-Saxon mission, we rightly find all reality of the economy. But we have to seek our future.

Economic independence, as they call economic security, is a condition we may stand equally to the world.

And for a tail of the economy, we find massive capital as they seek any investment in the future. This is a law of capitalism.

This shows us the necessity of building an economic group and free trade systems. That gives us an equal standing point to all the realities of the world.

The industry's health is its construction in cutting-edge and ownership of capital.

All these proof necessities of economic securities.

As we prove that equality is all from equal conditions. That is all our necessity we have to work for.

Any occupation of the progressed technology is an occupation of the world. And as those who are seeking economic security, we have to know.

What could we find in all those realities under the point of view called fairness? But we may not be a dreamer but realists that we can work for only be permitted.