

The last challenge is to reach an entire agreement by any nation.

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We could imagine any nation could agree to settle the world and the future. All these are the same agreement under a voluntary agreement. This is a remark that we insist on from our office.

We are seeking a new world. All these matters are under rational challenge. We propose the same world and the same future.

This is with hope on the others a reality has disappointment. But the agreement promises them to realize in the future.

We find a difference between hope and disappointment.

A dictator does the world in his own choices and decisions. A republic does the world in its accord.

This makes a world decision. We all equally have a past and a future.

All our love from our office to the world. We propose to share the world and the future. I want you to know that you have decided, but myself.