The meltdown of the economy and the new future

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

The world seeks itself with failure and reconstruction of self. That means we could forecast existed economic system may be failed as a meltdown.

There must be a new world creation as we see all the tails of our realities with a world.

If the world economy is failed as we would have a war in the future, how could we forecast the future then?

As we see all the financial conditions of any country, we can expect all new changes in the future. So the meltdown of the economy has a reality in the future.

Who has a decision and plan for the future? That is all that we have to know. We have to be prepared for the coming future.

If we act against the world, we need to appear in the world's vision. That is a full proposal from us to the world.

Waiting for a new money system needs a meltdown of the economy and rebuilding under digitalized system and standardized under the global economy.

As we see, we have all inflation of any goods globally, and still, the future is settled under new systems and realities.

We should propose the world with new economic rules and systems as we insisted. This must be the right decision to handle all new realities.

These ideas could divide the world into two differences. United Nations must ask for a new world government under any confusion in the future.

These must ask us to make our realities in the world. That means we need our world visions.
